of the "Four Hundred," who writes as follows: "What is the attraction yearly at the horse show, which is always jammed to the door? The horse? No. Society in the boxes, and the people cheerfully pay their money to be able to gaze at the loings so far removed from them, constituting an inner circle. It was this feeling which caused Broadway to be choked with a howling mob on the day of the wedding of Miss Bradley Martin to the Earl of Chaven, and it is this same impulse which prompts the time of the intermissions in gazing around the house at the fashionables as if they were waxwork from Mme. Tassaud's or the Elan Muses and following them up by aid of the little printed list on the bill, whereby each 'box owner' is conveniently numbered and catalogued."

"We stand as royalty does abroad, and we are prepared for this homage. Those who cannot see us as we are, but unfortunately frequently through the medium of writers who commence their observations in the style of one who a few years ago started his paragraph in this way, 'I dropped in at Mrs. Astor's last night, and evoked, consequently, the pungent reflection of Mr. Joseph Howard, Jr., a writer of the people, who evidently knew his man:'

"Dropped in at Mrs. Astor's! Good heavens! for what—the ash barrel?"

Washington's Cabin.

There are few buildings that attract the admirers of Washington that have more of interest in them than a decayed cabin which stands alone in an old pasture field a half mile from Berryville, in the beautiful Shenandoah valley of Virginia.

The old cabin was the home of Washington when he was a surveyor. He came here direct from the maternal roof to begin the arduous and at the time dangerous work of surveying the lands of Thomas, Lord Fairfax, who owned all the northern part of Virginia under the king's patent. The work was arduous because of the physical aspect of the country, then a dense wilderness, and dangerous because of the character of the inhabitants, who were principally Indians or scarcely less wild trappers or squatters upon his lordship's domain.

Washington had been selected by the noblemen because of his belief in the youth's ability to cope with these elements early in 1748, just after the completion of his sixteenth year, his only companion being George William Fairfax, nephew of old Lord Thomas.

Whether these boys erected the building or found it already in place history does not state, but well authenticated tradition says that they built it themselves. That they used it for an odd kept their instruments there and slept in the upper room there is ample proof.

Browning to Coleridge.

Browning loaned Lord Coleridge one of his works to read, and afterward, meeting the poet, the lord chief justice said to him: "What I could understand I heartily admired, and parts ought to be immortal. But as to much of it I really could not tell whether I admired it or not because for the life of two I could not understand it." Browning replied, "If a reader of your caliber understood 10 per cent of what I write, I think I ought to be content."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A STATEMENT OF FACTS.

Senator Stewart, in reply to an inquiry from Dr. C. C. Nelson of Grove City, Ohio, defines his position politically. He says he is a Populist, and that there is no other party in which a true friend of the people can be useful. The Republican and Democratic parties have been betrayed by their leaders. He became thoroughly convinced, as soon as the national platforms were made and published in 1892, that Mr. Harrison and Mr. Cleveland were nominated by the money power. The success of this power means falling prices, poverty and misery for the masses.

The full text of Senator Stewart's letter is printed in the JOURNAL. It is a comprehensive and impartial statement of facts, supplemented with advice which the people should heed. Mr. Stewart is enlisted in the war for the people's rights and will fight to the bitter end. Where the issues involved in the present financial contest are understood, there is no doubt of the final result. There is not a State west of the Missouri in which the masses of the people have not a pretty clear conception of the financial question, and there is not one of those States in which the goldmen, whether they train with the Republican or Democratic wing of the Wall Street combination, have a ghost of a show of success. An educational campaign is being conducted east of the Missouri and it is only a question of time, and a short time, too, until the people of the Mississippi valley will be in accord with those west of the Missouri. They recognize the truth of Senator Stewart's assertion that there is no other party but the Populist, which makes the free coinage of silver its cardinal principle, in which a true friend of the people can be useful.

AN ARISTOCRATIC NOMINATION.

The New York World makes serious charges against J. G. Van Alen, who has been nominated by President Cleveland to the Ministry to Italy. It is alleged that the nomination of Van Alen is in reward for $50,000 contributed by him to the Democratic campaign fund, with the understanding that he was to be compensated with a foreign mission. The World says Van Alen is not a Democrat, not an American, and has no sympathy with our people or our institutions. He is said to be an Anglo-maniac, having been educated in England where he spent the greater part of his life. He is unknown outside the Summer colony at Newport and a little circle of moneyed aristocrats in New York City, and he is quoted as saying that the United States "is not fit for a gentleman to live in."

In behalf of President Cleveland it is contended that he was unacquainted with Van Alen and ignorant of the nature of his claim to recognition when he sent his name to the Senate. The President is necessarily obliged to rely upon the judgment of others as to the fitness of candidates for office, and was deceived by those who recommended Van Alen. The opinion prevails at Washington that if the President does not withdraw the nomination the Senate will not confirm it. If what the World alleges is true Van Alen is certainly unfit to represent the United States in any civilized country, but if he has paid for a foreign mission and insists upon having one in a mild climate, he might be sent to Haiti, where they are all aristocrats and where there are 10,000 generals in an army composed of 25,000 men.

A SYNDICATE TO COIN SILVER.

The St. Louis Republic is authority for the statement that a syndicate is being formed to coin silver into dollars of hexagon shape at the rate of $100,000 or more per month. Prominent citizens of Colorado, Montana, Missouri, Kansas and Texas are promoting this scheme and will carry it into effect if the legislatures of the Western States will declare these coins legal tender for all debts contracted within their respective boundaries. It is claimed that individuals and corporations have a right to coin gold or silver into dollars provided the shape of such coins is not the same as the coins issued by the United States government. Citizens of California issued hexagon shaped $50 gold pieces in early days and also minor gold coins, and their right to do so was not disputed.

If the legislatures of several states pass laws making such coins as the syndicate propose to issue, a legal tender for private debts and State taxes and the constitution and the laws of Congress do not prohibit the mintage of such coins, arrangements might be made to put silver in general circulation throughout the west. State legislatures have authorized local banks to issue notes which were receivable for State taxes and various other obligations within the State. The right of a legislature to do this is not questioned, but the government tax of ten per cent makes the exercise of the right unprofitable. Such being the fact the inference is that a legislature can authorize the issue of bars or discs of gold or silver and make them a legal tender in all territory subject to the jurisdiction of the legislature.

The Government receipts are running behind the expenditures again. The net loss to the Government during the month of September thus far has been $753,000. The gold reserve Saturday stood $3,688,765, and on the first instant it was $36,009,123.

PRESIDENTIAL INTERFERENCE.

Senator Stewart Makes Several Strong Points Against Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, September 25.—The consideration of the resolution offered by Stewart on Saturday arraignment of the President for attempting to coerce Congress into passing the Silver Repeal bill, thereby impairing the independence of a co-ordinate branch of the government in violation of the Constitution and destructive of the government, was taken up.

A POINT OF NO RETURN.

The Nevada Senator had scarcely spoken a dozen words in support of his resolution when Manderson of Nebraska interrupted with the point that there was no quorum.

Enough Senators finally strolled in to make a quorum and Stewart proceeded. He began by referring to the recent centennial anniversary of laying the corner-stone of the Capitol, when he said the President, with more than a hundred thousand high paid government officers to bestow, with the veto power, which had only been used for extraordinary occasions, backed by concentrated capital and a "venal press," turning to the Senate wing and declared in menacing tones if the representatives then assembled legislated in passion or prejudice or on behalf of sectional or selfish interests, the time when the corner stone was laid or circumstances surrounding it was not worth commemorating.

This sentiment was cheered by the thoughtless multitude and was construed by a venal press as a rebuke from the President to a guilty, venal Senate.

DISOBEYING THE STATUTES.

Stewart then quoted from the history of England as to the parliamentary struggle with the Stuarts, and coming to the present time charged the President, in disregard of his oath of office, allowed the Secretary of the Treasury to violate the act which made the purchase of four and a half million ounces of silver per month mandatory, by exercising the unlawful discretion of purchasing a smaller amount.

Stewart declared that at no time since Charles I. in either England or the United States had any king or president openly and defiantly disobeyed a statute which he himself had declared mandatory, or allowed subordinates to do the same thing.

WAS IT NOT TIME TO SOUND THE ALARM? If the Constitution was of any value it should stand up and say to the President: "You have overstepped the mark. We cannot afford to have the laws of Congress disregarded."

Stewart said the President had no exalted idea of the Senate or House. He seemed to regard it as an appendage to the Executive. In one of his letters the President spoke of expecting soon to have this "session of Congress in his hands." That spoke volumes touching the President's opinion of the co-ordinate branch of the Government. Congress is in nobody's hands.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAID.

Stewart then read from the Cincinnati Times-Star an interview with the President, in which he said: "The repeal of the silver purchasing act could not be effected this year." There was no newspaper reporter, Stewart said, who would misrepresent the President in the columns of a paper. They all had too much respect for office to do that. The article continued: "The people are with me and my policy," said the President, "but I fear I shall not be able to command action from Congress. I never saw such obstinacy as exists among the members of Congress on the silver question. It is useless to appeal to them now."

The assumption of the President was that he knew best, said Stewart, and that those who studied the subject all their lives were wrong was remarkable. When such a sentiment was uttered by the Chief Executive, it became pertinent to enquire where and when did he acquire all the knowledge; where and when did he have the opportunity to familiarize himself with the wants and needs of the American people, and with the science of money and economics; where and when did he study it and in what school?

ATTRIBUTED TO IGNORANCE.

I believe, said Stewart, that the President is the only President who has ever presided at the White House who did not possess a liberal education, either in some college or on a farm, where he communicated with nature and learned nature's laws. I believe that earned a country education among the people or collegiate education is necessary. I do not believe that the education of a clerk or lawyer, without a liberal education in college or a liberal education by studying the books of nature can fit a man to preside over the destinies of this country.

The three greatest Presidents we ever had, received the liberal education which nature affords by coming in contact with the people and taking a wider view of the laws of man and of nature than can be obtained in a law office or in a Sheriff's office or in the office of Mayor or in any other contracted place where the great book of nature is closed.

Stewart cited Washington, Jackson and Lincoln as the great examples of great Presidents as the result of a liberal education.

Unfortunately the present President was denied both a college education and that grand and better education that came from communion with the great producing classes of the country, a communion with the pioneers of the West, communion with those who formed the bone and sinew of the country, a communion with the pure aspirations of free American citizens.

If the present President had known what Washington knew, if he had known the people as Washington, as Jackson and Lincoln fully appreciated them, he would not have uttered the remarks he had. He would not have talked of the obstinacy of Congress, nor would he have talked of having Congress in his hands. His environments have been peculiar.

THE PRESIDENT'S BIOGRAPHY.

Stewart then read from the President's biography in the Congressional Directory, the authenticity of which could not be questioned. At 16 years of age he became assistant teacher in a New York Institute for the blind, read Stewart, and added, that it looks now as if he had not gotten entirely over that idea. [Laughter.] In 1855 he went West in search of employment continued the biography. Let us see what his idea of the West is, said Stewart, and then read on, and engaged with his uncle at Buffalo [laughter] to aid in the compilation of an American herd book [laughter] as upon retiring from the Presidency, the biography read, he located in New York City and resumed the practice of law.

Without concluding, Stewart yielded to Cameron of Pennsylvania, who spoke against the repeal bill.

Against the Fight.

NEW YORK, September 25.—Clergymen and respectable citizens of Kings county are up in arms against the Corbet-Mitchell prize fight, and will do every thing in their power to prevent it taking place at Coney Island.

THE RAILROAD ASSESSMENT.

The board of equalization reduced the assessment of the road bed and track of the Central Pacific Railroad from $14,000 to $13,000 per mile. The proportion of the rolling stock in Washoe county is assessed at $52,000, or about $1,575 per mile, making the total assessed valuation of the road and rolling stock in the county $14,575 per mile.

Heretofore the road and rolling stock were assessed collectively at $14,000 per mile by the State Board of Assessors, or $575 per mile less than at present. As it now stands the assessed valuation of the road and rolling stock in Washoe county is about $30,000 more than the valuation placed upon the property by the State Board of Assessors a year ago.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adopting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs. Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

The Elk o Independent says while J. B. Scott of Moond Valley was eating dinner one day last week a fire started in his barn, burning the barn and its contents, 18 calves, 2 horses 2 stacks of hay, one of wheat, harness, wagons and all the farming implements. It is not known how the fire originated.

A boarding house occupied by non-union sailors was blown up with dynamite in San Francisco Saturday and four persons killed. The authorities believe that the Seaman's Union is responsible, and the secretary of that organization has been arrested. Governor Markham has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the crime.

The fruit crop this season is simply immense. Yesterday a JOURNAL reporter visited the Poor ranch, west of town, with General Powning, who is administrator of the Poor estate, and he saw more apples than he ever beheld before in one day in Nevada. In the large orchard on the ranch the trees are literally loaded with fruit. There is a large variety of fall and winter apples and there are several trees which bear from 600 to 1,000 pounds of fruit.

"Old Rose," as he was called, died at Dunphy's ranch, near Shoshone Point, on the Humboldt river, last Wednesday. He was one of the first white men to settle on the Upper Humboldt, and he had the reputation of being a "holy terror" in early days. Hill Beachy and a party of stage men started out to hang him at one time, but they changed their minds and concluded to let him live if he would leave the country.

SENATOR STEWART A POPULIST.

There is no Other Party in Which a True Friend of the People Can be Found.

UNITED STATES SENATE
WASHINGTON, September 13.
Dr. C. C. Nelson, C. C. City, Ohio—
P. M. 10:00, your favor of the 7th instant is received.

You inquire if I am a Populist. My answer is that I am. There is no other party in which a true friend of the people can be useful. The Democratic and Republican parties have both been betrayed by their leaders. I became thoroughly convinced that Mr. Harrison and Mr. Cleveland were both nominated by the money power as soon as those nominations were made and their platforms published.

I was a candidate for re-election to the Senate of the United States from the State of Nevada. I could not afford to deceive the people, who had honored me so much by asking a re-election as a Republican. On my return home from Washington, I informed my constituents that I could not support the Republican nominee for President and that the Democratic nominee was no better than the Republican; that they both belonged to and were representatives of the bondholding gold monopoly of London and New York and that if either of them were elected the power of his administration would be used to aid concentrated capital to absorb the earnings of the people, augment the power of the oligarchy of wealth and reduce the masses to dependence and want.

I canvassed the State of Nevada and advised the people to vote for Weaver and Field, the nominees of the Omaha convention, as the only true representatives of the people's rights. The platform of the Omaha convention demanded the free and unlimited coinage of silver, and the delegates who composed that convention were honest, earnest men, and meant what they said. The people of Nevada, without regard to former political affiliations, believed as I did, and cast more than two-thirds of their votes for Weaver and Field, and elected Francis G. Newlands, the free coinage candidate for Congress, by a still larger majority. They also elected every member of both Houses of the Legislature pledged to the restoration of silver. When the Legislature met I was re-elected to the Senate of the United States by an unanimous vote in each House.

My statement that whoever was elected, Mr. Harrison or Mr. Cleveland, he would use the patronage of the Presidential office to destroy one-half of the metallic money of the world, was vehemently denied by the friends of both. The truth of my statement has been verified. The President united with the banks and bondholders to alarm the people as to the soundness of the Government, and created a panic. They falsely proclaimed that the addition of $150,000,000 of legal tender money to the circulation of the country was the cause of the panic they themselves had created.

The President then declared that an extraordinary emergency had arisen, and called Congress together to repeal the Sherman act, and nothing else. The call increased the alarm and intensified the panic. The subsidized press of all the commercial centers was made to declare that the people demanded the immediate repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. Silver was clandestinely demonetized by the mint act of 1873, since which time an overwhelming majority of the people of the United States have been in favor of the restoration of the white metal to the place it had occupied for thousands of years as a money metal previous to the crime of 1873. No party, state or national, dare go before the people soliciting their suffrages upon a declaration justifying or even palliating that crime, but all parties claimed to be bimetallists and in favor of the use of silver equally with gold.

Some recognition of silver was obtained by the legislation of congress against votes, federal patronage, and the influence of money. The Bland act, requiring the purchase of not less than $200,000 nor more than $4,000,000 worth of silver bullion per month for coinage, was the first; the so-called Sherman act, requiring the purchase of $4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion per month by the issuance of legal tender treasury notes was the second. At every congress since silver was demonetized a vast majority of the Democrats in each house were in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Three bills for the free and unlimited coinage of silver passed the senate during Harrison's administration. The first was passed June 17, 1890; the second January 14, 1891; the third July 1, 1892. The last was passed after the nominations were made and the platforms published.

A bare majority of the Democrats of the house, with the aid of a vast majority of the Republicans have at last obeyed the commands of Mr. Cleveland and passed the bill repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. The combined power of London, New York and the administration at Washington, aided by a subsidized press, are now attempting to coerce the senate and force the passage of the house bill, which ratifies the crime of 1873, adopts the gold standard and precludes any further use of silver as money.

The issue is momentous. The success of the money powers means falling prices, poverty and misery for the masses. The question which the senate is considering involves more far reaching and woe to the human race than any question ever submitted to the American congress. The press either conceals or totally misrepresents all that is said in behalf of the people's cause, and publishes broadcast, with flaming headlines, the hypocritical and false pretenses of the representatives of capital that they are bimetallists and friends of silver, while they are urging the repeal of the only law which recognizes silver as money, and insisting by their votes and acts upon the single gold standard.

It is the duty of every patriot and lover of his country to rouse himself to action and resist the cruel aggressions and warfare which capital is now making against labor and the producers of wealth. Defeat means slavery, misery and want. Victory means the restoration of the rights of the people guaranteed by the constitution, liberty and prosperity. Come what may, I am enlisted in the war for the people's rights to the bitter end, whatever the result may be. Yours, very truly,

WILLIAM M. STEWART.

He is to Print a Frontier Newspaper at the Midwinter Fair.

The Examiner says the executive committee of the Midwinter Fair has granted a concession to Sam Davis, of the Carson Appeal, which is described in a letter to a San Francisco friend as follows:

"How would it do to erect an old shanty and run a frontier newspaper of the '50 period? Let the editor be in his red shirt, pants in his boots and six-shooters visible, editing copy on top of a flour barrel, while the compositors are resting outside in the sun. I would publish it about twice a week, allowing, of course, for an occasional suspension of the sheet for the reason of the killing of an editor or two. It might be made a regular Arizona Kicker style of journal, and reprint also the old Bret Harte and Mark Twain stories. We could print it in old type and sell copies at 5 cents all day. I will run such a sheet if the Fair fellows will give me a concession on it and I will make it a part of the Nevada exhibit. We will have all the literary men on the Coast contribute occasionally with a new feature every issue. I believe it can be made the chief curio at the Fair, and no doubt many an old-time 'wood out will be forthcoming for its embellishment."

The executive committee thought, with Davis, that this journalistic venture could undoubtedly be made one of the "chief curios" of the Fair, and a satisfactory concession was arranged.

Board of Equalization.

The Board of County Commissioners met yesterday as a Board of Equalization, all the members being present. The assessed valuation of the C. P. R. R. railroad bed and track was reduced from $14,000 to $13,000 per mile.

The assessed valuation of certain mortgages, the property of Mary Wall, was raised $6,000.

The assessed valuation of property belonging to C. T. Bender was raised from $1,800 to $2,100.

A few other changes of valuations in small sums were also made.

"German Syrup"

Here is an incident from the South—Mississippi, written in April, 1890, just after the Grippe had visited that country. "I am a farmer, one of those who have to rise early and work late. At the beginning of last winter I was on a trip to the City of Vicksburg, Miss., where I got well drenched in a shower of rain. I went home and was soon after seized with a dry, hacking cough. This grew worse every day, until I had to seek relief. I consulted Dr. Dixon who has since died, and he told me to get a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. Meantime my cough grew worse and worse and then the Grippe came along and I caught that also very severely. My condition then compelled me to do something. I got two bottles of German Syrup. I began using them, and before taking much of the second bottle, I was entirely clear of the Cough that had hung to me so long, the Grippe, and all its bad effects. I felt tip-top and have felt that way ever since."

CITIZENS OF NEW YORK MAKING PLANS FOR THE FUTURE.

Improvements on a Gigantic Scale Projected—Hundreds of Millions of Dollars to Be Spent in Beautifying the Chief City of the Continent.

Much has been said from time to time of the absence of public spirit, of local pride and of neighborhood feeling in New York. Even the men who have made great fortunes here do not seem to have any regard for the city that has given them their opportunities for achieving wealth. "Men do not understand the causes of their success," said a speaker of the board of trade recently in commenting upon the difficulty in arousing public interest here in the movement for the improvement of the Erie canal, on which so much of the prosperity of the city depends. The lack of public spirit was signally illustrated in the half-hearted way in which the business men entered into the movement to secure the World's fair for New York. Chicago was a blaze of enthusiasm on the subject, but New York entered into the competition in a listless, don't-care sort of way, which naturally resulted in Chicago carrying off the prize.

The fact is that New York is a city of markets, of ships, of shops, of hotels and of tenement houses, but not of homes. The rich men may have mansions here, but their homes are in their country houses. The people who live in flats and tenement houses are engaged in a struggle for bare existence, and have not the time or disposition to give much thought or care for the city. The diversity of races and languages represented in the population serves only to separate the people more and make them regard the city with utter indifference.

But there is reason for believing that this state of things is gradually growing better. There are evidences of increased public spirit, of a greater pride in the city and of a larger interest in her development and improvement. Great schemes of public improvement have been projected or begun. Millions have recently been expended in the acquisition of new parks, and twice lately when it was proposed to do something that would injure Central park there was an exhibition of aroused public opinion that prevented the outrage and would have done credit to a much smaller but more enthusiastic city.

Rich men are now contributing a liberal portion of their wealth to enterprises that will increase the glory of the metropolis. Columbia college is being rapidly developed into a great university. A magnificent cathedral has been started. A spacious botanical garden is to be established. A fine aquarium is to take the place of Castle Garden in the Battery. A splendid speedway for horses is to be built. The city is to erect an immense municipal building, which it is proposed shall be a notable architectural addition to the metropolis. The present city hall is to be given to the trustees of the Tilden trust and made the home of a $2,000,000 library.

The art and natural history museums are being rapidly developed and will take rank among the best in the world. Monuments and statues are being multiplied, and eight years after his death the $500,000 tomb of General Grant is approaching completion.

But in other and perhaps more interesting ways is the revival of public spirit in New York being manifested. Business men are showing an increased interest in the good government of the city and its improvement in little things as well as great. Other cities might indeed very with advantage some of the methods of the organizations that have been formed here for the public weal.

Two City Improvement societies have been formed and has started out to investigate the various complaints of citizens, and to secure, if possible, better pavements, better street cleaning and similar improvements in parks, bridges and streets of the city. Lately a municipal art society has been organized by leading artists, architects and others, with a view of making the city more beautiful. They seek to improve the architecture of the public buildings, to secure artistic decoration within them and to prevent the erection of inferior structures and other inartistic structures. Another society is engaged in marking with bronze tablets the places of historical interest. Others of a more philanthropic nature are endeavoring to better the life and condition of the tenement house population.

The women have organized a health protective association, and are endeavoring to institute reforms that shall decrease the death rate and make New York a better city to live in. The latest reform which they have taken up is that of securing a health regulation requiring the removal of the refuse of the 60,000 horses in the city of New York. The physicians comprising the Academy of Medicine have lately been acting with vigor and courage to secure improved quarantine protection and a purified water supply. The chamber of commerce and the board of trade—the mouthpieces of the merchants and bankers—have lately exhibited increased activity and exerted a wider influence in these things certainly indicate that New Yorkers are beginning to wake up and to show a livelier interest in the welfare of the city.

Perhaps the fact that other cities are getting closer to her in the competition for business has something to do with this. It is beginning to dawn upon her citizens that unless she can unite with Brooklyn, bridge and tunnel the North river, throw more bridges over the East river, get rapid transit from city hall to Westchester county and institute other measures of public improvement, she is liable to lose her commercial supremacy. —New York Cor. ONE CURE FOR INSOMNIA.

A Man From New York Took a Little Active Exercise on Horseback.

"I once was a sufferer from insomnia," said a dentist who lives in one of the small villages of the state, as he sat talking with other men in the sitting room of an uptown hotel, "but I got rid of the trouble."

"What did you take for it?"

"Bucking pony."

"Tell us about that, please."

"Well, you see, there was nothing the matter with me only I couldn't sleep. The doctor looked me over and said I wasn't suffering from any disease that he could detect, but all the same I could get only a few catnaps every night, and I felt that I was crazy if such a condition of affairs continued much longer."

A wise friend of mine advised me to try horseback exercise. Just at that time a man had brought to the village a string of ponies from the west. As the ponies were wild they were offered for sale cheap. I bought one. He was such a sleepy looking animal that we called him Rip Van Winkle. After we knew him better we dropped part of the name and called him plain Rip. The first ride I took on him furnished excitement for the whole village. Two men helped in saddle and mount him in the stable. When the door was opened he shot out into the street like a streak of lightning.

"Hearn full against the fence opposite the stable and broke several pickets. Then he reared up on his hind legs and came near throwing me over backward. Next he tried to stand on his hind, but I yanked him back on his feet and drove the spurs into him. He started to run then, and I let him go as fast as he could leg it until we got to the Methodist church at the end of the street. A temperance meeting was being held in the church and the door was open. Before I could stop the pony we were in the church and half way up the aisle. Women screamed and fainted."

"Some of the men led Rip back into the street. I didn't dare to get off his back. When the men let go of the bridle he began to buck, and for a few minutes I thought my neck would be broken. He would go at a gallop when he went at all, but he would stop now and then to indulge in some bucking. Presently he changed his tactics and went from one street to another, across the jumping fence, turning up the side of a hanging garden and keeping up his busy dodging the branches of fruit trees. The next street led to a turnpike, along which I spurred him for miles until he was covered with foam and nearly tired out."

"He seemed to be docile when I got him back to the stable. Next day, however, he was nearly as bad as when I first rode him, and every day for a fortnight was obliged to ride him along the turnpike several miles. My mind, how he did buck! I was so late at the end of two weeks that I could scarcely walk to my office, but I could sleep. A few minutes after I got into bed at night I was sleeping soundly, and I awoke every morning thoroughly refreshed."

"Do you still ride the pony?"

"No. By the time I was cured of sleeplessness I had broken Rip to ride, and I sold him for double the sum I had paid for him. My advice to anybody who is suffering from insomnia is to get a bucking pony and ride as fast as he can. If no necks are broken, both man and pony will be benefited by the treatment."

The Fictitious Raging Missouri.

The current of the Mississippi river averages from 24 to 40 miles an hour in velocity, but a steamboatman on the Missouri would be pretty apt to call this still water, as that stream flows along under ordinary circumstances at the rate of 8 and 10 miles an hour, and on state occasions it develops the speed of an avalanche. Engineers consider bridging the Missouri a difficult accomplishment, as the swift current is so versatile in course and numerous in its velocity that it is impossible to predict where the channel is liable to drift. —Alton Sentinel.

Blunder Worse Than Guilt.

There are some penalties on innocent acts essential to human safety, and the singular whose failure has destroyed a train must be punished, even though, when he pleads that he was in a "dram," he is to his own mind telling the simple and sufficient truth. Nature is even harder on blunder than on guilt, and though man has no right to be as stern as nature, which, for example, executed a dynamite at Madrid—not for his intention to murder, but for his carelessness in dropping his bomb—still, there are points upon which he must be nearly as hard. —London Spectator.

Colonel North's Strong Room.

Colonel North is said to have at Eltham one of the strongest of strong rooms probably in the world. Not only is his gold and silverware stored here, but lady visitors to Eltham are provided for, and arrangements being made for the "care" of their jewelry during the night. The "room" is floored with cement, and walled all round with weighty granite. To get into its interior you must pass through many gates, all of which are burglar alarms. The trap-door is in iron cages, and the "room" is under ground. —London Times.
